Becker launching new electrical and communication products for coal sector at QME

Becker NCS will display newly approved equipment for the coal sector on Stand 1020 during the 2008 Queensland Mining and Engineering (QME) exhibition at the Mackay Showground from July 22-24.

Specialists in the electrical and communications area for the mining industry, some of Becker's new products on show will include the Becker group's flameproof distribution box, IS tagging system (reader and tags) which has just been certified, and leaky feeder for two-way communications.

Becker NCS has recently established an electrical division and a range of finished products, such as pump starters and fan starters, will be displayed.

As part of the Becker Mining Group, Becker NCS has extensive solutions in the fields of communications, electrical, automation and tagging/tracking.

In business for over 40 years, Becker provides solutions for automation and communication (wireless and wired technologies), electrical services including projects, manufacturing and labour hire.

Managing director Tony Napier said the company used decades-long experience, new ideas, and state-of-the-art technology to make the mining of raw materials more efficient and safer.
