Mastermyne highlights full range of mining services, offers work opportunities at QME

Mastermyne will display its Capricorn Mining product and mining consumables and attachments on Stand 9200a during the 2008 Queensland Mining and Engineering (QME) exhibition at the Mackay Showground from July 22-24.

The company is also inviting exhibition attendees to discuss employment opportunities as it is looking for people to join its rapidly expanding group.

Formed in 1996, Mastermyne is a supplier of specialist underground contract services such as underground roadway development, conveyor installations, roof support, and general outbye works.

It has recently acquired three companies:

- Capricorn Mining, a specialist consumables and manufacturing operation
- DRE Electrical, an electrical service provider which services the open cut and underground mining industry
- PYD Mining, a supplier of specialist underground contract services in NSW.

Capricorn Mining is a supplier to the underground coal mining industry in Queensland and New South Wales.

Its product range includes general fabrication, mining consumables, materials handling equipment and equipment refurbishment.

DRE Electrical, based in Mackay, is an electrical contracting company predominantly servicing the coal mining industry.

It specialises in dragline and shovel electrics and has many years experience in constructing, refurbishing and commissioning draglines.

PYD Mining Services is a contracting company in NSW's Illawarra and Hunter Valley.

Some of its services include project management of secondary support installation, ventilation device installation, outbye services such as road works, pipe work and HT cable installation and removal, labour for development, longwall and gas drainage operators, supervisory staff for longwall moves and drive head installations.

PYD will be keen to talk to anyone interested in a mining career in NSW, or in moving from Queensland and looking for new challenges.
